INSPECTOR IS COMING

To Examine Applicants For the Position of Carrier

ON RURAL DELIVERY ROUTE ONE

Must Know How to Read and Write—Other Conditions Are Specified By the Department.

The Coshocton postmaster has received a letter from the department accepting the resignation of W. H. Webb, carrier on rural free delivery route No. 1, and which adds:

"A route inspector will call at your office in a few days to examine such persons for the position of carrier as may make application for the same. The route inspector will advise you of the exact time he will arrive at your office that you may notify applicants to be on hand.

"The examination will be extremely simple and practical, only sufficient to test the applicant's ability to read and write.

"Applicants must reside directly on the line of the route to be served or within the territory supplied by the same.

"Each applicant must be prepared to furnish a suitable horse and cart or wagon for the use of the service.

"Applications of persons under 17 or over 55 years of age will not be considered except in the case of honorably discharged soldiers and sailors of the Civil war or Spanish war who are physically able to perform service.

"Applications of badly crippled or deformed persons will not be considered.

"Applications of women will be received, but a woman will not be recommended for appointment to the position of regular carrier unless in the judgment of the route inspector who will conduct the examination local conditions and circumstances are such as to make the recommendation desirable and for the best interest of the service."

Charles W. Parker, route inspector, notified Postmaster McCoy today that he would be at the Coshocton postoffice Feb. 25 to examine applicants for the position.

AN OUTSIDE VIEW.

The Newcomerstown Index has the following timely comment:

"The Coshocton Bulletin of last week gave a six-column summary of the testimony in the Beebe divorce case then being heard before Judge Maxwell. The account discloses a condition of morals that beggars belief. It must be remembered that everyone of the ten names brought out by the testimony of the injured husband represents the very cream of socalled Coshocton society. Coshocton may well cry to the gods to send some Hercules to clean her Augean stables. The filth of the Roebe case was sickening enough but was only a petty cesspool as compared with this Maelstrom of rottenness. With all due apology to our esteemed contemporary, we doubt if the best interests of Coshocton are subserved by printing the details of this miserable mess."

BUTTER IS SCARCE.

Dealers Are Having Difficulty In Filling Orders.

Local dealers in butter are complaining of a shortage in the supply. As a rule butter is scarce at this season, but this year the scarcity is so marked as to excite comment. No one accounts for it, but the fact remains that there is not much butter in town, and grocers would like to know where they can find a supply.

VERY OLD LADY

Mrs. Margaret Cutshall died at the home of her son, George Cutshall, near Orange. She was 88 years old and her death was due to the infirmities of old age. She was the widow of Samuel Cutshall. She is survived by six children. Her funeral occurred Tuesday and interment was made in West Lafayette cemetery.

ED KUNTZ'S RECORD.

Ed Kuntz, the Cherry street grocer, broke the local record for taking orders one day this week when he landed 101. It was on a wager, and the number represents his individual work. Ed is permanently located on Cherry, and has everything in the grocery line. When you want anything use either phone. He has both. It.

An Indication of Nervous Trouble.

A headache is simply an indication that some part of the body is deranged, usually the stomach or the nervous system. Clinic Headache Wafers cure by relieving these conditions. Never fail. INTO BOILING WATER

RESCUED BY HORRIFIED MOTHER

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Hines was horribly scalded at their home on Locust. The child will recover, but he is injured so as to cause him excruciating pain.

Mrs. Hines was doing the family washing, and the boy was in the room. She placed a boiler well filled with boiling hot water on the floor, intending to use it in a few minutes. The little one evidently thought it would make a good seat and when his mother was not looking sat down.

The child toppled over into the vessel but was there only a brief period. The cry of alarm warned the mother who quickly rescued him from his perilous position. Mrs. Hines knew at once that her son was badly scalded, and help was quickly summoned. A physician was called who gave the little sufferer every attention and he was made as comfortable as possible.

Although the child is severely scalded it is believed he will recover.

BEEBE CASE AGAIN.

Judge Maxwell Heard Arguments on Affidavit in Prejudice.

Attorney Pomerene for F. W. Beebe and Attorney Powelson for Mrs. Beebe were in court this afternoon and argued before Judge Maxwell on the affidavit in prejudice filed by Mrs. Beebe.

Judge Maxwell thought the affidavit had been filed too late, but he would not now pass final judgment. He said the matter would go on for the present as though the affidavit had not been filed.

The attorneys will confer tonight on the questions of alimony and custody of children.

HANDSOME NEWSPAPER.

The Marietta Register celebrates its centennial with one of the handsomest newspapers ever put out from any office in Ohio. From the artistic cover to the last page it is not only a work of typographical beauty, but the subject matter is of that high order for which the Register has long been noted. Editor A. D. Alderman and his able assistants have set a new pace for special newspaper editions in Ohio, and are worthy the success their hard work and intelligence have brought about.

SIX HUNDRED MILES

TOTAL COST IN THE MILLIONS

The fight against the canals of Ohio is on in earnest in Columbus and friends of the canals are there in large numbers to prevent, if possible, the passage of the Painter abandonment measure.

In this connection it is noticed that few people in Ohio are conversant with the details of the system, and that matter is being given publicity.

The canal system is over 600 miles in length with over 32,000 acres of reservoir, and under an act of the general assembly of 187[illegible], prescribing the duties of the board of public works, the system was divided into three divisions as follows:

First—That part of the Ohio canal from Cleveland to Dresden, including the Walhonding canal with the Summit county reservoir of 2,000 acres.

Second—Ohio canal from Dresden to Portsmouth, with the Columbus feeder from Lockburne, also the Licking reservoir with over four thousand acres of land area.

Third—Miami and Erie canal and Sidney and St. Mary's navigable feeders, also the Loramie, Lewiston and Grand reservoirs—over 26,000 acres area.

Dams in operation in lineal feet 5,250.

Trunk aqueducts, lineal feet 5,432.

The total cost of the construction of the canals, including the reservoirs, was $14,340,572. The expenditures for the maintenance of this system has been in excess of the receipts from tolls and rentals, and the general assembly has made appropriation to meet the deficiency from time to time. The expenditures annually for a period of ten years have averaged about $185,000 while the receipts have been considerably lower than this amount.

New York has about the same amount of miles in length of canals and her appropriation annually amounts to $750,000 for the maintenance of the system. No tolls are collected in New York.

OHIO LEGISLATURE.

Several Bills Passed of Merely Local Application.

Columbus, O., Feb. 20.—Among the important bills that were introduced in the senate, one of which was by Senator Hosea, to place the home for disabled volunteer soldiers, their wives and widows and army nurses, at Madison, Lake county, in the care of the state. An appropriation for repairs and improvement of not to exceed $25,000 is made. The home has been operated for several years by the Woman's Relief Corps, but it is thought the institution can be managed to a much better advantage by the state.

Senator Harding introduced a bill to reorganize the National Guard to conform to the organization of the United States army. This is in anticipation of an act of congress appropriating additional financial support to the militia of the several states.

The senate passed the Wirt lien law, which makes all claims on property for labor or material a lien on that property. Since the supreme court declared the law of 1898 to be unconstitutional, there has been a question as to whether or not the state has a valid lien law.

Wednesday the two houses devoted nearly all of the time Wednesday to the passage of bills. Many of them were merely of local application, the improvement of roads, the transfer of funds or the erection of school buildings and bridges. The Royer resolution to submit to a vote of the people the proposition to relieve stockholders of the double liability by a constitutional amendment passed the senate.

The house passed the Pollock engineers' bill, which amends the law so as to require all engineers operating engines of over 30 horsepower to be examined by the state examiner, and making eight deputies instead of six as at present. Nearly all the afternoon was given to the discussion of the measure, but it finally passed with but four dissenting votes. Other bills passed by the house were of a local nature.

Sale Recommended.

Cleveland, Feb. 20.—It is understood that the bankers' committee in charge of the Everett-Moore syndicate affairs after a lengthy session decided to recommend that the Big Consolidated streetcar system of this city be sold to a local syndicate headed by H. [illegible] E. Andrews, former president of the company. The members of the committee declined to say at what price the property would be sold.

Brewery Workers to Strike.

Cincinnati, Feb. 20.—At a mass meeting held here the brewery workers of Cincinnati, Newport and Covington decided to strike next Saturday night if their differences are not amicably settled by that time. About 2,000 workmen are involved. The fight is for supremacy between the Engineers' and Brewery Workmen's unions.

Fatal Freight Wreck.

Columbus, O., Feb. 20. — A broken rail wrecked a double-header freight train on the Columbus, Sandusky and Hocking at Shepards, a suburb of this city. Thirty-two cars were ditched and one of the locomotives left the track and exploded. William Smith, engineer, was killed outright and his trainmen were severely injured.

A. T. Goshorn.

Cincinnati, Feb. 20.—A. T. Goshorn died at his home in Clifton, aged 68. His success in the management of the famous industrial expositions given in Cincinnati 30-odd years ago led to his appointment as director general of the centennial exposition at Philadelphia in 1876.

CAUGHT THE BOOKIES

NEAT TRICK TURNED BY SHARPERS.

Not Till Fifteen Minutes Had Elapsed Did the Bookmakers Learn That the Event Was Won by Another Racer—Twenty Thousand Believed to Have Changed Hands.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Twenty thousand dollars is said to have been tricked out of the men who made hand books on the New Orleans races in Chicago Monday. Modern was sent out by the "ticker" as the winner of the fourth race, when the event was won by Frank Rice, while Modern was unplaced. The correction was not sent over the "ticker" until 15 minutes after the false report. It is said that almost every hand-book man in the city was "hit," the losses varying from $200 to $800. Inasmuch as there are reported to be fully 100 hand books in operation in the city, and not one of them could be found who had not lost something on the miscalled race, it is probable the actual sum made by the job was more than $20,000, although the latter is the figure which was named by a well known bookmaker.

Modern's price was sent out as 10 to 1. In most of the hand books $20 "each way" was offered on Modern, calling for a ticket that would net the bettor $280. Throughout the downtown district there was almost a score of bookmakers who lost on the trick, having to pay out on Frank Rice also when the correction came along.

ALASKAN DEBATE

Calls Forth Severe Denunciations in Canadian Parliament.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—There was an exciting debate in the house of commons on the Alaska boundary question. It was brought up by Henri Bourassa, who moved for all papers and correspondence connected with the Clayton-Bulwer treaty and the Alaska boundary. The premier said that the correspondence could not be brought down while negotiations were going on. Mr. Bourassa did not see how that excuse could apply to the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. He pointed out that Canadian interests were always sacrificed by Britain to please the United States. Britain, like Providence, wanted to be on the side of the big battalions. He pointed to the Alabama claims, the Trent affair, the Alaskan boundary, the placing of an embargo on Canadian cattle, the aiding of immigration to South Africa and other cases to show that Britain was already to sacrifice Canadian interests.

Sir Wilfred Laurier, the premier, said that he was not an admirer of the British policy on the American continent, but he did not think that even Mr. Bourassa would ask that Britain should go to war with the United States. What was necessary was a little time to see if an amicable solution could be arrived at.

Mr. S. E. Gourley of Pictou, Nova Scotia, struck a fighting attitude, and declared that he agreed with Mr. Bourassa, although he had never done so before. He accused Britain of always sacrificing Canada in its negotiations with the United States, and rather than submit he and his family would go into the trenches and stay there for two years if need be to fight for the rights of Canada.

"If necessary," he said, "to fight the Yankees, we will fight within 24 hours and after six months we will capture their capital and annex their country to Canada." Mr. Bourassa then withdrew his motion.

Low Price For Pig Iron.

Pittsburg, Fbe. 20. — One hundred and three thousand tons of Bessemer pig iron were bought for the mills of the United States Steel corporation. This purchase, although calling for delivery in the third quarter of the year by the Merchant furnace interests of the Mahoning and Shenango valleys, was made at a remarkably low price—$16 a ton at the valley furnaces. These figures are notatble on account of the extreme scarcity of pig iron as well as the excessively high prices that are being secured for billets and sheet and tin plate bars.

No class of people living have looked more in vain for relief than those who are everlastingly at the mercy of highly sensitive nerves. The columns of this paper are almost daily referring to some one in Coshocton who has found the key to quiet their nerves. It's the only medicine that can produce home testimony, because it is the only preparation that will overcome this trouble.

Mrs. E. Waight, of 120 North Walnut, Coshocton, Ohio, says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are a splendid nerve tonic. I was nervous, restless, easily excited and tired, slept poorly and needed just such a nerve tonic badly. The medicine acted with me rapidly and easily, making the nerves steady, sleep natural and strength and energy good. This medicine is the best to me I ever took, and I am pleased to say so, and glad Mr. C. E. Anderson, druggist, called my attention to it."

WILL NOT LIVE IN A HOUSE

Lancaster County (Pa.) Man Has Dwelt Outdoors Many Years.

Efforts that proved unavailing have been made during the extreme cold weather of the past few days to have Gottleib Gohdvohl, an aged resident of Lancaster county, Pa., to give up his abode in the open air.

He came to this country at the close of the civil war, and since then he has never sought the shelter of a house, living outdoors in all sorts of weather, says the Philadelphia Press. He is now domiciled in a small wood near Elizabethtown. His only protection at night consists of rags and tattered clothing begged from farmers. For five years Gohdvohl, with his wife, who is now dead, lived in the open along the Conestoga creek. The man is well read and perfectly sane.

New University Feature.

A professors' clubhouse will soon be built by the trustees of the University of Pennsylvania. The living apartments will be modeled after the design of the university dormitories. There will be living rooms for a hundred professors. There will also be an abundance of room for the entertainment of friends, and it is planned to make social entertainments a feature of the life in the new house.

MANY TONGUED FILIPINOS.

Dr. Rumbold Says That Five Hundred Languages Are Spoken.

Dr. Frank Rumbold, late captain of the Thirty-second infantry, United State volunteers, who is just home from the Philippines after serving two years in the campaign against the insurgents, lectured before the Tuesday Evening club at Webster Groves at one of its recent meetings, giving the members an interesting account of some of his experiences, says the St. Louis Republic.

The Filipinos are a people, he says, of many languages. No less than 500 different dialects are spoken on the islands, and Americans have found it quite impossible to master their speech. The officers of the American army have adopted instead a plan of talking English to the natives, thus forcing them to learn it.

Dr. Rumbold believes only education will redeem the people of this faroff country and that it will take three generations to accomplish any great reform. The lecturer spoke highly of the Filipino woman, saying that she was more independent than men. She conducts the store while her husband does the housework and looks after the children. He says that the American women exercise a great influence over the natives of their sex, as they try to imitate in manner and dress all that their American sisters do.

The doctor has a large collection of Filipino implements of warfare, which were displayed for the entertainment of the members of the club and proved very interesting.

PRODUCTION OF IRON.

In comparing the output of pig iron by the United States and Great Britain Milton I. Platt claims in the New York Times that as to aggregates for entire calendar years America forged ahead of Great Britain ten years ago and may be said to have kept the lead ever since and now to have such an advantage as will maintain it always in that position, an advantage to be measured by the very respectable favorable difference of, say, upward of 50 per cent. The records need only be glanced over to prove that our pig iron output has doubled on what we were able to show but a very few years ago, while it is three or four times as large as in the early eighties and eight or nine times the volume produced a decade before. Beginning with 1869, when the total was 1,711,287 tons, this exhibit brings results up to the late year. Great Britain's figures being also introduced to permit of interesting comparison beyond the points already brought out:

Cod Liver Oil
and What It Does

The Remedy Freed from Grease

Hagee's Cordial of Cod Liver Oil (with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda) is based on the learning of famous medical men. They discovered that the grease in cod liver oil is only a temporary preservative of its invaluable restorative and reconstructive properties—not necessary to the cure.

Remedial Agents Retained

By a scientific method devised from this knowledge, known and practiced exclusively in our laboratory, the grease is extracted from cod liver oil leaving only the remedial elements, to which is added a cordial pleasant to taste and smell, making Hagee's Cordial acceptable to the most delicate stomach.

Revitalizer Reconstructive Restorative

By its revitalizing, reconstructive, corrective principles it cures la grippe, coughs, colds, weak lungs, bronchitis, consumption, catarrhal conditions, nervousness, sleeplessness, indigestion, dyspepsia, malassimilation, rheumatism, skin diseases, pimples, blotches, weakened condition following fevers, impoverishment of the blood, and creates more and better flesh. The cure begins with the first doses—quick relief—and permanent results are realized day by day—prevents further disorder by maintaining perfect condition.

PATERSON AS IT WAS.

Fire Stricken City Noted For Its Silk Mills.

Paterson, N. J., which has just been laid waste by a terrific fire, has, according to the last census, about 106,000 inhabitants, but recent growth has probably increased this a couple of thousands. The principal industry is silkmaking, which gives it the name of Silk City, says the New York Times. There are about forty mills of sufficient size to be classed as such. Besides these there are many small plants employing from four to twenty persons which work on the various lines of the business. The dyeing is largely done in these small shops. More than half the population depends upon the silk trade.

The Barbour Thread works and the locomotive works are the other two important sources of employment. Only a few months ago the city was threatened with the loss of the Rogers Locomotive works when their former owner suddenly closed them, declaring that he was rich enough. The works, however, were saved to the city and are now running to the limit, as are the works of the American Locomotive company, which are almost as important as the Rogers works.

The city lies on both banks of the Passaic river, which at the west end drops into one of the finest falls in the country. Until the last few years the water pouring over the falls was a sight worth seeing, but the diversion of the river's waters at its head for potable purposes for Newark has diminished the flow. The city contains a large foreign born population. Within the last few years the silk mills have largely filled up with men from southern Europe. Of the old class there is a very strong mixture of Scotch and English.

The city has attained much unpleasant notoriety within the last few years. It was dragged into the assassination of King Humbert of Italy owing to Bresci having lived there. The notorious gang of anarchists which infests a section of the place kept the eyes of the world fastened on the Silk City for months. Several other untoward occurrences had the city's name linked to them, and for years the place has been more prominent in the news of the day than cities of many times its size.

In contradistinction to the unpleasant notoriety the city recently attained, it had the recompense of within the last few years bringing out two men of national importance. One was the late Vice President Garret A. Hobart, the other ex-Attorney General and possible future Supreme Court Justice John W. Griggs. Fortunately the monument to be erected by the city to Mr. Hobart is still unplaced. Had it been erected it would have been in the path of the fire.

Want Freedom of Speech.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 20.—The local university students, at a meeting held in spite of police orders to the contrary, rejected the government's concession respecting student organizations and meetings, and proclaimed that they would strike unless their demands for a complete autonomy and freedom of speech are granted. Disorders have already broken out at Kieff. The assistant minister of education has gone to that city.

Rheumatic Warped Limbs.

To suffer the most excruciating pains, to lose the use of limbs, and to have the joints swollen and disfigured is the lot of the victim of rheumatism.

Uric acid in the blood is the cause of rheumatism. If the kidneys are active, they remove the uric acid. That is their special work. If, on the other hand, the kidneys are deranged, there is sure to be uric acid in the blood and rheumatic pain through the body.

No amount of liniment will ever cure rheumatism. It sometimes relieves, but cure can only be brought about by setting the kidneys right. The most effective kidney remedy known to man is Dr. A. W. Chase's kidney-Liver Pills. They cure rheumatism permanently by making the kidneys active in their work of removing the uric acid from the blood.

Mr. William J. Coad, No. 65 Brunson Street, Oswego, N. Y., writes: "I am very glad to praise Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and tell what they have done for me. I suffered for many years with severe constipation, rheumatism and kidney trouble, and could get no relief until I tried Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. In them I found immediate relief, and can honestly recommend them to other sufferers."

WHEELER'S PHILIPPIC

SPEECHES ON VARIOUS SUBJECTS.

Proceedings Enlivened With a Few Words on Trusts by a Michigan Republican — Philippine Tariff Bill Considered, With Lively Exchanges Between Opposing Senators.

Washington, Feb. 20.—The greater part of the general debate on the Indian appropriation bill was devoted almost entirely to extemporaneous topics. As on yesterday, the issues raised by Mr Wheeler (Ky.) a few days ago came in for considerable attention and was the feature of the session. Mr. Bromwell, an Ohio Republican; Mr. Kern, an Illinois Democrat, and Mr. Fleming, a Georgia Democrat, added their views to the literature on the subject, but it was Mr. Boutelle, an Illinois Republican, who entertained the house most. He was well fortified with material, and with exceeding good temper and a trenchant display of wit traced the history of what Mr. Wheeler had called "truculent sycophancy," as he said, from the day when the first Democratic president purchased a bogus coat of arms to the entertainment of Queen Liliuokalani by the last Democratic president. He finally dismissed the whole subject by saying it should be accepted abroad as one of the "erratic and sporadic phases of American humor."

Mr. Hamilton, a Michigan Republican, enlivened the proceedings with an entertaining speech on trusts. The other speakers were Mr. Little (Ark.), who discussed conditions in Indian Territory; Mr. Corliss (Mich.), who spoke on the Pacific cable; Mr. Stephens (Tex.), on statehood for Oklahoma; Mr. Sulzer (N. Y.), on the education of the Indians; Mr. Jackson (Kan.) on the election of senators by the people, and Mr. Newlands (Nev.), on the bill to redeem silver dollars in gold.

In the Senate.

Washington, Feb. 20.—The senate continued the consideration of the Philippine tariff bill, the main speeches being made by Mr. Burrows (Mich.) for the bill and Mr. Money (Miss.) against it, although Mr. Mitchell (Or.), Mr. Foraker (O.), Mr. Mallory (Fla.) and Mr. Tillman (S C.) all took more or less part in the general debate on the subject. Mr. Burrows maintained that congress was dealing with the question as it was today, not with any reference to what took place in the past or might take place in the future. He maintained that the United States' occupancy of the islands was with due regard to international obligations. Mr. Mallory spoke in favor of this amendment to that portion relating to the navigation laws, and said it was necessary in the interest of American shipping. Mr. Money maintained that it was not so much a question of what could be done with the Filipinos as to legislate in the interest of our own people. There were several lively exchanges between Mr. Foraker and the opposition during the debate.

Grand Army Encampment.

Washington, Feb. 20. — The executive committee of the national council of administration of the Grand Army, which has in hand the making of arrangements for the annual encampment, met here Wednesday. The committee adopted a resolution accepting the proposition of the citizens of Washington relative to holding the next encampment here, conditioned on the furnishing of free quarters for not less than 20,00 veterans. The matter will be taken up with the citizens' committee, and it is believed an amicable arrangement will be reached. Discussion of the date for the encampment appeared to favor the early part of October.

Declines Responsibility.

London, Feb. 20.—A dispatch from Seres, European Turkey, says that W. W. Peet, treasurer of the American mission at Constantinople, has gone to that city, and that M. Garginlo, dragoman of the American legation at Constantinople, and Dr. House, the missionary, who are still at Seres, are growing very anxious at the delay in the release of the captives, which was expected a week ago. The Turkish government declines responsibility in the matter, as the transaction with the brigands was made without its knowledge.

Kriegerbund's Present.

Berlin, Feb. 20.—The cannon which Emperor William has presented to the German Kriegerbund of Philadelphia is on board the steamer Kron Prinz Wilhelm, on which Admiral Prince Henry of Prussia and his suite are being conveyed to the United States. Prince Henry will make the formal presentation when he visits Philadelphia.

No String Attached.

New York, Feb. 20.—Mrs. Mary Ryle of Paterson, N. J., has just given $100,000 to be used without condition by the city for the purposes of a public library. The library building, with its contents, was burned in the recent great fire.

Gift to Wooster University.

Wooster, O., Feb. 20. — Word was received here that the directors of the Pennsylvania lines had given $5,000 to the fund for the rebuilding of the University of Wooster, destroyed by fire Dec. 11.

OUR NEWEST TRUSTS.

Facts About Industries Grown Into Great Corporations.

FORTUNE IN A MENIAL SERVICE.

Success of the Bootblack Trust and Its Organizer—Scissors Grinder Trust the Most Recent Entry in the Combine Field—Pins, Peanuts and Manure Now Subjects of Trusts.

The growth of trusts and great corporations in the United States during the past few years has been so remarkable that the average man of today is never surprised to hear that a new organization has extended its field of operations and embraced something which has heretofore been considered immune to the attacks of combined capital.

When there were a pin trust and a peanut trust and a pretzel trust each came into being the public was prepared for the blow, says the New York Times. But when a manure trust and a [illegible] trust and a scissors grinder trust put in their respective appearances there was the nearest approach to a smile on the face of Uncle Sam that he has evinced since he first saw one of the modern corporations popularly called trusts.

One enterprise that has recently come under the control of a trust is the "clean towel supply" business. As almost all New Yorkers know, the business that was done for years in supplying clean towels, soap and other toilet articles for the offices throughout the business sections was until recently done by the wives or the sweethearts or the friends of the various janitors of the office buildings. This has all been done away with, and now along comes the trust and monopolizes the industry.

It would seem at first glance that this was too "picayune" an industry to engage the attention of capital. But when you stop to consider that the company receives 75 cents per month for each cabinet it rents, with a supply of soap and towels, and when you find out that there are out on rental more than 20,000 cabinets in New York, Brooklyn, Jersey City and Hoboken you can readily recognize that the gross income of the company exceeds $15,000 per month, which at the end of the year has amounted to over $180,000.

For centuries bootblacking was one of the most menial of all the services that one could name, and surely it did not seem that it could ever be elevated to the realm of finance and become a fortune making enterprise until Tony Aste, by his organization of the "bootblack trust," demonstrated that no service was too low, too menial or too looked down upon to be made a profit maker if organized on the same plan that had made the Standard Oil company a success.

That the bootblack trust is a paying institution cannot be doubted when it is seen that Mr. Aste maintains a string of race horses that was so good as to contain the great colt Nasturtium, for which Mr. William C. Whitney paid Mr. Aste $50,000.

The most recent entry in the trust field is the so called scissors grinder trust. This trust is one formed to control the business of saw filing for the butchers in and about New York.

The New York Saw Filing company is the dignified name which goes to cover the business of the trust. The plan of operation of the company is to furnish a butcher shop with a complete set of meat saws, for which it makes no charge, as the saws remain the property of the company. After a shop has been equipped with a set of saws the company sends each week to the shop and substitutes for the saws that have been doing service for the preceding week another set that are freshly filed and as sharp as possible. The ones taken away are filed and set again.

For the service a fee is charged that is about what it used to cost to have the filing done by the scissors grinders, who did all of this kind of business before the advent of the new company. As this system avoids the necessity of having any other saws in the shop, the butchers are very glad to avail themselves of the opportunity offered.

Whether this trust is going to be as profitable as any of the other "peanut trusts" is a problem which time alone can solve, as the company has been formed within the too recent past to be able to say what the outcome will be. [illegible] the report of the scissors grinders that their business has been ruined [illegible] that the business will probably "pan out" a good dividend.

Novelty In Matchboxes.

In [illegible] a new kind of matchbox [illegible] says the [illegible]. It consists of a [illegible] in which matches are [illegible] in such a manner that any [illegible] of them can when desired be [illegible] by turning a small [illegible]. When this lever is pressed the [illegible] and as it moves a [illegible] into a groove, where it is [illegible] a couple of catches. The [illegible] thrust forward and [illegible] passed over a rough [illegible]. Thus when a match is [illegible] it is necessary is to [illegible] on the lever. At once the [illegible] and all the labor of striking the [illegible] on a box and then holding it in the hand at the risk of burning one's fingers is saved.

DIVIDES HONORS

President's Conclusion In Schley-Sampson Controversy.

SUSTAINS COURT'S DECISION.

DECLARES IT WAS A CAPTAINS' FIGHT

Credits President McKinley With Doing Justice to Both Parties Concerned, and Fails to Find a Reason For Reversing His Action—Believes That Further Agitation Will Only Do Damage to the Navy and the Country.

Washington, Feb. 20.—The following statement was made public by the president:

I have received the appeal of Admiral Schley and the answer thereto from the navy department. I have examined both with the utmost care, as well as the preceding appeal to the secretary of the navy. I have read through all the testimony taken before the court and the statements of the counsel for Admirals Sampson and Schley; have examined all the official reports of every kind in reference to the Santiago naval campaign, copies of the log books and signal books, and the testimony before the court of claims, and have also personally had before me the four surviving captains of the five ships, aside from those of the two admirals, who were actively engaged at Santiago.

It appears that the court of inquiry was unanimous in its findings of fact and unanimous in its expressions of opinion on most of its findings of fact. No appeal is made to me from the verdict of the court on these points where it was unanimous. I have, however, gone carefully over the evidence on these points also. I am satisfied that on the whole the court did substantial justice. It should, however, have specifically condemned the failure to enforce an efficient night blockade at Santiago while Admiral Schley was in command. On the other hand, I feel that there is a reasonable doubt whether he did not move his squadron with sufficient expedition from port to port. The court is a unit in condemning Admiral Schley's action on the point where it seems to me he most gravely erred: his "retrograde movement" when he abandoned the blockade and his disobedience of orders, and misstatement of facts in relation thereto. It should be remembered, however, that these actions which the court censured occurred five weeks or more before the fight itself; and it certainly seems that if Admiral Schley's actions were censurable he should not have been left as second in command under Admiral Sampson. His offenses were, if inefficient, condoned when he was not called to account for them. Admiral Sampson, after the fight, in an official letter to the department, alluded for the first time to Admiral Schley's "reprehensible conduct" six weeks previously. If Admiral Schley was guilty of reprehensible conduct of a kind which called for such notice from Admiral Sampson, then Admiral Sampson ought not to have left him as senior officer of the blockading squadron on the third of July when he (Sampson) steamed away on his proper errand of communication with General Shafter.

We can therefore, for our present purpose, dismiss consideration of so much of the appeal as relates to anything except the battle.

Admiral Schley's Appeal.

The appeal of Admiral Schley to me is really an appeal from the decision of the court of inquiry. Five-sixths of the appeal is devoted to this question of command and credit, that is, to matter which the court of inquiry did not consider. It is in effect an appeal from the action of President McKinley three years ago when he sent in the recommendation for promotion for the various officers connected with the Santiago squadron, basing these recommendations upon his estimate of the credit to which the officers were respectively entitled. What I have to decide, therefore, is whether or not President McKinley did injustice in the matter. This necessarily involves a comparison of the actions of the different commanders engaged. The exhaustive official reports of the action leave little to be brought out anew; but as the question of Admiral Sampson's right to be considered in chief command, which was determined in his favor by President McKinley and later by the board of claims, has never hitherto been officially raised, I deemed it best to secure statements of the commanders of the five ships (other than the Brooklyn and New York, the flagships of the two admirals), which were actively engaged in the fight. Admiral Philip is dead.

(The president here quotes a magazine article by Captain Philip giving his description of the fight, and also gives the statements of Captain Clark, Admirals Evans and Taylor and Commander Wainwright, and concludes:)

The report of the facts as set forth above in the statements of the captains, and, elsewhere, their official reports and testimony, leaves no room for doubt on any important point. The question of command is in this case nominal and technical. Admiral Sampson's ship the New York was seen at the outset of the fight from all the ships except the Brooklyn. Four of these five ships' captains have testified that they regarded him as present and in command. He signaled "close in" to the fleet as soon as the first Spanish ship appeared, but his signal was not seen by any American vessel. He was actually under fire from the forts and himself fired a couple of shots at the close of the action with the torpedo boats in addition to signaling the Indiana just at the close of the action. But during the action not a single order from him was received by any ships that were actively engaged.

Admiral Schley at the outset of the action hoisted the two signals of "clear ship" and "close in," which was simply carrying out the standing orders of Admiral Sampson as to what should be done if the enemy's ships attempted to break out of the harbor. Until after the close of the first portion of the fight at the mouth of the harbor and until after he made his loop and the Spanish ships were fleeing to the westward, not another American ship noticed a signal from him. When the western pursuit was begun the Oregon and the Oregon only, noticed and repeated one of his signals of command. The captain of the Oregon then regarded him as in command, but did not in any shape or way execute any movement of any kind whatsoever in accordance with any order from him.

Neither Was In Command.

In short, the question as to which of the two men, Admiral Sampson or Admiral Schley, was at the time in command, is of merely nominal character. Technically, Sampson commanded the fleet, and Schley, as usual the western division. The actual fact, the important fact, is that after the battle was joined not a helm was shifted, not a gun fired, not a pound of steam was put on in the engine room aboard any ship actively engaged in obedience to the order of either Sampson or Schley, save on their own two vessels. It was a captains' fight.

Therefore the credit to which one of the two is entitled rests on matters apart from the claim of nominal command over the squadron; for, so far as the actual fight was concerned, neither one nor the other in fact exercised any command. Sampson was hardly more than technically in the fight. His real claim for credit rests upon his work as commander-in-chief; upon the excellence of the blockade; upon the preparedness of the squadron; upon the arrangement of the ships, head on, in a semi-circle around the harbor, and the standing orders in accordance with which they instantly moved to the attack of the Spaniards when the latter appeared. For all these things the credit is his.

Distributes the Credit.

Admiral Schley is rightfully entitled—as is Captain Cook—to the credit of what the Brooklyn did in the fight. On the whole she did well, but I agree with the unanimous finding of the three admirals who composed the court of inquiry as to the "loop." It seriously marred the Brooklyn's otherwise excellent record, being, in fact, the one grave mistake made by any American ship that day. Had the Brooklyn turned to the westward, that is, in the same direction that the Spanish ships were going, instead of in the contrary direction, she would undoubtedly have been in more "dangerous proximity" to them. But it would have been more dangerous for them as well as for her. This kind of danger must not be too nicely weighed by those whose trade it is to dare greatly for the honor of the flag. Moreover, the danger was certainly not as great as that which in the self-same moment menaced Wainwright's fragile craft as he drove forward against the foe. It was not, in my judgment, as great as the danger to which the Texas was exposed by the turn as actually made. It certainly caused both the Brooklyn and the Texas materially to lose position compared to the fleeing Spanish vessels. But after the loop had once been taken Admiral Schley handled the Brooklyn manfully and well. She and the Oregon were thenceforth the headmost of the American vessels, though the Iowa certainly, and seemingly the Texas also, did as much in hammering to a standstill the Viscaya, Oquendo and Teresa, while the Indiana did all her eastward position and crippled machinery permitted. In the chase of the Colon the Brooklyn and Oregon share the credit between them.

President's Closing Words.

Under the circumstances, it seems to me that the recommendations of President McKinley were eminently proper, and that so far as Admirals Sampson and Schley were concerned, it would have been unjust for him to have made other recommendations. In short, as regards Admirals Sampson and Schley I find that President McKinley did substantial justice, and that there would be no warrant for reversing his action.

Both Admiral Sampson and Admiral Schley are now on the retired list. In concluding their report the members of the court of inquiry, Admirals Dewey, Benham and Ramsay, unite in stating they recommend that no further action be had in the matter. With this recommendation I most heartily concur. There is no excuse whatever from either side for any further agitation of this unhappy controversy. To keep it alive would merely do damage to the navy and to the country.

McKAY CASE WITH JURY.

Arguments Were Long and Covered Law and the Testimony.

The McKay case went to the jury this afternoon after a comprehensive charge had been delivered by Judge Maxwell.

The arguments were long. Captain James opened Wednesday afternoon for McKay and was followed by Judge Dunbar for the railroad. W. R. Pomerene continued the company's side Thursday morning, and Hon. G. H. Barger closed for McKay.

MAN WITH TRAITS OF A CAT

Samuel Crawford of Sherman, near Susquehanna, Pa., has developed most peculiar traits as the result of a surgical operation, says the Chicago Inter Ocean. While operating a patent hay lifting fork last fall Crawford had a large part of his scalp torn off. Local surgeons fixed him up temporarily, and he was then taken to a postgraduate college in Philadelphia, where the physicians decided to graft flesh on his skull. A cat was killed, and some of its flesh was sewed to the remnant of flesh upon the patient's head. In a few weeks the flesh of the man and that of the animal began to grow together, and Crawford gradually recovered and returned to his home.

Recently Crawford has been giving his relatives a great deal of trouble by showing all the characteristics of a cat. He prowls around back yards and barns at nights, fights with stray dogs and even stalks rats and mice. Crawford himself does not seem to realize his changed condition so far as these particular things go, but there is another that gives him a great deal of worry and trouble.

The cat from which the flesh to graft on Crawford's skull was taken was of the tiger variety. Its fur was of a rich dark yellow and handsomely barred with black. In place of hair there grows on the replaced portions of Crawford's scalp a coating of fur identical in texture and coloring with that of the tiger cat. It is this that gives him his greatest worry. He has to have his skull shaved clean once a week or become a dime museum freak, as the peculiar marking makes him an object of curiosity wherever he goes.

MONKEYS TO PICK COTTON

Peter Kuntz, a native of Chicago, who says he is a cousin of "Oom" Paul Kruger, arrived at Pine Bluff, Ark., the other day accompanied by a party of capitalists and lumbermen.

Mr. Kuntz says he is touring the state of Arkansas in search of a spot where he proposes to launch a scheme which, if successful, will revolutionize the cotton picking industry of the south. He and his companions are traveling on a special train composed of three vestibule sleepers.

Kuntz proposes, according to a Memphis (Tenn.) dispatch to the Philadelphia Press, to colonize a large number of monkeys from Africa and South America, which, he says, make excellent cotton pickers. He is looking for a large tract of land, which will be bought in and a stock company formed from the number of capitalists now with him. He then proposes to embark for Africa and bring back two shiploads of monkeys.
